CLASS INFO

There are very few dogs, regardless of genetic make up, who will bring the fight to a man and stay engaged in that fight regardless of the amount of personal, environmental and physical pressure that man brings without first receiving proper training and learning to develop that skill set.

Each quality team starts with the proper selection from the breeder, importer or kennel. Many kennels insist on providing you the dog they select for you. However, can they really provide the best canine for your unit if they do not know your paramaters like you do? Many agencies find themselves at the mercy of kennels selecting their canines for them which, many times, leaves much to be desired.

This class is designed for the handler, trainer or unit supervisor that wants to become more involved or take the active role in selection of canines for their unit. This class takes you through our proven selection test with the full psychological explanation and grading system to enable you to select the proper dog for your unit.

While we ask that each handler attending this class bring their canine with them to serve as test subjects, you do not need to have a canine to attend the class.

EQUIPMENT

Each handler should bring the following to class:

BDU dress and issued K9(if applicable)

Personal Hydration	K9 Hydration
Bug Spray	Sunscreen
Long Line	4 or 6 foot lead
E-collar (if used)	Muzzle if needed
